... is the first-ever book to explore the 10,000 steps lifestyle in Los Angeles. From Simi Valley to the South Bay, Pasadena to Pacific Palisades, author Paul Haddad's entertaining text digs into the city's history and lore. Tread the grounds of a defunct Disney attraction called Dwarfland. Trace the extinct canals of Venice Beach. Stroll the shortest Main Street in America. Discover hidden streams, secret murals, lost cities, Hollywood haunts, houses made of stone, and parks that time forgot!

Each walk includes detailed maps, descriptions of terrain and dog-friendliness, ideal picnic spots, restaurant suggestions, colorful sidebars and more.

L.A. native Paul Haddad is the author of three books, including the critically acclaimed High Fives, Pennant Drives, and Fernandomania: A Fan's History of the Los Angeles Dodgers' Glory Years, 1977-1981 (Santa Monica Press).
